Nearby Parks

Australian Alps National Parks – The Alpine National Park adjoins the magnificent Kosciuszko National Park in NSW which extends north to the ACT's Namadgi National Park. Managed co-operatively, the three parks protect most of the major alpine and sub-alpine environments of mainland Australia.

Flora and Fauna

Rare or threatened wildlife including the Mountain Pygmy-possum, the world's only exclusively alpine marsupial, inhabits the park. Above the tree line of twisted Snow Gums are extensive alpine herbfields, famous for their summer wildflowers. In spring, brilliant Flame Robins hop about on snow drifts. In summer, you may encounter Swamp Wallabies, wombats, echidnas and possums. The noisy birdlife includes Gang-gang Cockatoos, Pied Currawongs and sleek Ravens.

Looking After the Park

- Please leave dogs, cats and firearms at home.
- Do not drive off roads or tracks.
- Please take your rubbish away with you.
- Remember that all native plants and animals are protected.
- Choose dry campsites at least 30 metres from streams and use a portable stove, especially above or near the treeline.

- No Fires (including stoves) on Total Fire Ban days. Observe Fuel Stove Only areas to prevent damage to vegetation.
- Enjoy a visit to a hut but do not use them for accommodation. Always carry your own camping equipment.
- Wash up away from streams, and where toilets are not provided bury toilet waste at least 100 metres from streams.

"Victoria's Alpine National Park protects an important part of our natural and cultural heritage, and offers an amazing range of outdoor activities in both summer and winter. But please remember we need your help to look after it for the future."

— Parks Victoria Ranger, Lachie Jackson

"I've walked a lot of this park and been delighted by the feeling of being so far from civilization, in a world that seems so untouched."

— Park visitor, Lloyd Brown

Mount Buffalo National Park

Established in 1898, Mount Buffalo National Park is one of Victoria’s oldest national parks. Its rolling plateau top has gorges, waterfalls and monumental granite tors, and gives sweeping panoramic views. It is popular for family skiing and cross-country skiing in winter, and for bushwalking, camping and photography in summer.

Mount Buffalo National Park

The park was established in 1898 as one of Victoria’s oldest national parks. It offers sweeping panoramic views of the state’s highest mountains and ranges, as well as diverse and stunningly beautiful alpine topography with ranges, wild rivers, impressive escarpments, forests and open grasslands known as high plains. Human occupation of the Alps is long and varied. Countless generations of Aboriginal people summered in the high country, holding tribal ceremonies and feasting on protein-rich Bogong Moths. After European exploration and settlement came gold miners, timber getters, dam-builders and graziers who ran their stock on the lush summer pastures. Today the park is chiefly renowned for unrivalled bushwalking, camping and ski touring in beautiful mountain landscapes.

PARKS VICTORIA

Victoria’s second highest peak can be reached by foot along one of several walking tracks. The summit affords brilliant views of the surrounding Victorian Alps.

BRYCE GORGE

The Gorge is one of the park’s most impressive features. A 5.7 km walking track goes through varying alpine ecosystems and leads to views of several waterfalls.

Be prepared for sudden adverse weather changes at any time of year. Always carry warm waterproof clothing, food, water, a compass and detailed maps. Always stay on roads or walking tracks. Keep groups small (8 people) and choose walks that suit abilities. Check for seasonal road closures on 4WD tracks between June and October.
